Blurb/Shorttext:

Herbal medicines are considered as the preferred treatment option for various common ailments in almost all parts of India because of their traditional values, lesser known side effects, easy accessibility, and affordability and so on. In spite of several advancements, modern medical science failed to cater to the needs of all people and deal with ever increasing diseases and disorders. The people from the socio-economic weaker sections and those living in remote areas rely solely on herbal medicines for healthcare needs, which are the only accessible and affordable therapy.
