Students were given creative freedom to improvise and come up with their own stories. Every student participated in interesting sports to boost their ethical background. Drama is not a form of entertainment or propaganda, but rather a form of popular community-based education to 'unfreezes,' breaking identified patterns that impeded real communication among communities by making them aware of their full potential through dialogues. Lastly, the program concluded with a vote of thanks by the Dean of Student Affairs, Dr. Atanu Deb.
